Washing Instructions for
Handloom and Hand Woven Garments

dry clean

Handloom/ Hand Woven Garments will need Dry Cleaning if

- Are made of Silk or Wool.
- They feature delicate Decorative Motifs, Trims or Hand Embroidery.
- The garments feature Stiff/Stabilizing seam finish.
- The clothes have Tailored/Structured details such as Lining, Padding, Leather Inserts or Boning.

You should always choose to dry clean when feasible and use water to wash only when strictly necessary.

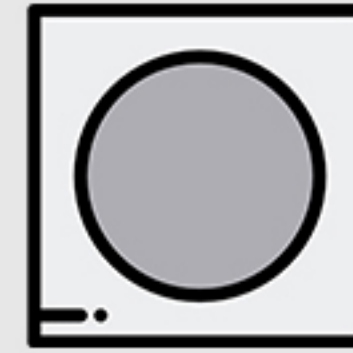

hand wash

- Reducing the Number of Washes will help you preserve your Handloom Garments, significantly lengthen their life and save precious water in the process.
- Dry your clothes possibly by leaving them flat on a clotheshorse surface in dry ventilated environments, preferably on shaded open air spaces.
- Sort and Separate clothes by color before each wash and do not mix colors with whites. A useful tip is to turn garments inside out before washing them, so to preserve colors for a longer time.
- Handloom Garments should be always Hand Washed (when a dry cleaning option is not available). Use delicate detergents and cold water, soak only for a short period of time (10 to 20 minutes) and wash immediately after soaking.
- In case of Stains, Gently rub the stained area with your hands, without using brushes or hard scrubs and avoid using a hard soap bar directly on the garment. Carefully remove the detergent completely by rinsing a few times in cold water.

machine wash

- In case of No Alternatives to Machine Wash, please choose a gentle cycle and strictly cold water.
- Very importantly: Do not use bleach and do not dry handloom clothes in machine driers.
- Do not Wring Tightly to remove water from the fabric.

*Iron inside out on low and store in a cool and dry place.
Silk garments should possibly be stored in cloth covers.*

SANGHAMITRA

Most of SANGHAMITRA's collections are made with handloom/hand woven Indigenous Muga, Eri and Paat Silks.

These pieces will carry natural colours and glow, intrinsic in the fabrics they are made of, or feature natural plant based dyes. You may notice slight tone variations or small texture flaws in the fabrics, these are simple and beautiful imperfections that nature created and, along with the impeccable craftsmanship, make your handmade garment entirely unique

Made in India
